CORPORATE RESEARCH FORUM OUR 2020 PROGRAMME

ABOUT CRF

Corporate Research Forum's (CRF) purpose is to enhance the knowledge, capabilities and effectiveness of your HR function in order to drive superior organisational performance.

Our events, research and online resources offer members the opportunity to deepen their knowledge, improve their practice, and engage with fellow professionals and expert contributors.

Our approach is robust, evidence-based and rooted in the principles of social science.

ABOUT OUR 2020 PROGRAMME

CRF's 2020 programme covers a broad range of business and HR topics applicable to organisations seeking to achieve sustainable performance in a highly dynamic context. Topics include:

- What do great organisations look like, and how can we build and sustain them?
- How is HR's role evolving in an age of technology-driven change, and what capabilities do we need to develop in order to remain relevant?
- How can we improve our capacity to predict and plan for the future?
- How do we design highly effective leadership development, and keep it relevant for the challenges of today's organisations?
- What is the latest thinking and what are the emerging practices in talent management, diversity and inclusion, and employee health and wellbeing?

Details are set out opposite with current confirmed contributors.
