PROGRAMME

Welcome to CRF's 2024 research and events programme.

We can expect 2024 to bring continued economic, political and social turbulence. In this context it will be essential for HR to drive a business-focused agenda and deliver actions that increase the capacity of the organisation and the people who work there to weather ongoing storms.

With this in mind, our 2024 programme builds the knowledge, capability and effectiveness of the HR function by providing access to new thinking, tools and frameworks, and exploring how to apply these in practice.

Three themes underpin our 2024 programme:

- 1 Developing a FUTURE-FIT WORKFORCE through RESKILLING, TECHNOLOGY PREPAREDNESS and LEARNING INNOVATION
- 2 Building LEADERS who are equipped to DRIVE CHANGE while delivering BUSINESS RESULTS
- 3 Creating a HIGH-PERFORMANCE ENVIRONMENT that enables people to THRIVE

These themes are underpinned by the need to make decisions and develop people strategies based on evidence.

Alongside our programme of research and in-person events, CRF continues to evolve how we deliver value to members.

There are a wealth of resources available to you, including:

- A regularly updated multi-media library of ONLINE CONTENT
- WEBINARS on all topics covered in the core programme
- A diverse MEMBER NETWORK, keen to share good practice and fresh ideas
- 4 DIGITAL COMMUNITIES, with online events enabling peer exchange
- Access to CRF LEARNING, offering in-person courses, On Demand Learning, and bespoke development programmes
- Support from our MEMBER ADVISORY SERVICE, using the knowledge and insights of our extensive network of HR professionals and experts

We look forward to working with you in 2024.

EVIDENCE-BASED

JAN 25 FEB 7 Evidence-Based HR: A New Paradigm

London, UK

Prof. Rob Briner, CRF / Queen Mary Uni. of London;
Dave Hodges, Thales Group; Nick Holley, CRF Learning;
Thomas Rasmussen, Shell and John Whelan, CRF

The purpose of HR is to help the business realise its objectives, which can only be achieved through understanding: a) what these actually are and b) what HR can do to tackle them. Evidence-based HR (EBHR) helps HR practitioners make better-informed decisions in both these areas. Building on CRF's 2023 EBHR research, this session will explore what EBHR means in practice, presenting a range of practical tools, checklists and frameworks developed to help HR professionals become more evidence-based.

CHANGE

FEB 19-20 FEB 20 A Systems Thinking Approach to Organisational Change

Home Counties, UK

Beth Gunderson, University of Southern California

Identifying how different parts of your organisation work together is a critical part of successful change projects. These relationships are often barriers to change and can cause transformation projects to break down. Systems thinking – a holistic way of looking at the relationship between different parts of the organisation – can help to overcome these barriers. This two-day immersive workshop will guide attendees through a systems thinking approach to change, giving them the tools to ensure their change initiatives are successful.

LEADERSHIP

FEB 26 MAR 1 Emerging Approaches to Leadership Development in the Gulf

Riyadh, Saudi Arabia | Abu Dhabi, UAE

Richard Hargreaves, CRF and John Whelan, CRF

In a rapidly evolving business landscape where cultural sensitivity, growing local talent and alignment to the Gulf's vision for responsible business is paramount, this facilitated peer exchange will explore how organisations are adapting their approaches to develop impactful leaders for the future. During the meeting we'll discuss how HR leaders can foster an inclusive workplace, as well as highlighting the integration of digital technologies, experiential learning, and the development of soft skills as key components of progressive leadership.

RESKILLING

MAR 21 MAR 22 Reskilling for Sustainable Growth

London, UK

Andy MacLean, Standard Chartered; Gillian Pillans, CRF and Prof. Patrick Wright, University of South Carolina

The shrinking workforce, AI-driven disruption and the need to apply a sustainability lens to every area of the organisation mean that the future workforce will look very different. Organisations need to develop reskilling strategies to identify and build future capabilities and ensure a sustainable workforce. Workforce planning, skill pathways and increasing the flow of talent around the organisation are all potential solutions to this challenge. This event will explore how HR can help organisations build future skills and harness technology to achieve this goal.

Building Capability Through Learning Innovation

Lausanne, Switzerland

Gillian Pillans, CRF and Sarah Toms, IMD Business School

Science tells us that adults learn best when learning is timely, relevant and immediately applicable. AI is also radically changing the ways that we learn at work, from creating personalised career development plans to identifying the most effective ways that different individuals learn, and providing learning content and coaching in the moment. Over two days at IMD Business School, with a networking dinner on the first evening, we will explore what this means for the future of learning, as well as sharing practical examples in an environment conducive to learning, peer exchange and networking.

MAY 9-10

Building Skills and Talent for the Future

Abu Dhabi, UAE

Reed Sylvester, e& and John Whelan, CRF

Building future skills and talent in organisations in the Gulf region is a pressing challenge and opportunity. While there are numerous initiatives and efforts underway, organisations need to continually adapt their strategies to stay competitive in the evolving landscape of the Gulf region's business environment. The conference will address approaches from upskilling local talent to nurturing future leaders, the impact of AI and technology to embracing D&I and the need for a collaboration between Government, education and the private sector to create and sustain the talent pipeline required for the future.

High Impact Leadership Development

London, UK

Prof. Barbara Kellerman, Harvard Kennedy School;
Gillian Pillans, CRF and Nick Holley, CRF Learning

Impactful leadership development is still relatively rare; even though we understand a lot about how adults learn, we still struggle to practically apply this to how we develop future leaders. In this practical workshop, we will focus on how organisations can bring the theory to life to develop leaders ready to address future business challenges.

PERFORMANCE

SEP 19 SEP 27 Driving Organisational Performance: HR's Critical Role
London, UK
  Prof. Rob Briner, CRF / Queen Mary Uni. of London;
Prof. Alex Edmans, London Business School; Sarah Morris, Bain Capital and John Whelan, CRF

Business performance must be delivered at several levels: organisational, business unit, team and individual. Yet, management and HR disproportionately fixate on the individual, investing much time and money in redesigning the appraisal process with minimal overall impact. Considering the organisation as a whole, this event will explore what HR should focus on to actually achieve tangible business performance results. Attendees will leave with a clear idea of what constitutes performance (good and bad) and the levers that HR can use to drive superior performance for the organisation.

OCT 7-9 OCT 7 Applications and Implications of Emerging Technology
Valletta, Malta

The world is on the cusp of a major technological revolution, fuelled by the public release of advanced AI and other technologies. With supporters seeing a utopia at hand and critics foreshadowing the end of civilisation, it is difficult to know what it means for business right now. CRF's 2024 conference will address exactly that.

Focusing on the implications of technology for improving productivity, driving innovation, and developing people, sessions will put the lens on skills, leadership, and organisation design. We will also focus on change management, which is essential to ensure the potential of generative AI to transform the ways we work can be realised. The implications for people will be vast, and HR must take centre-stage.

Sustaining Employee Wellbeing

London, UK

Dr. Wolfgang Seidl, Mercer and Gillian Pillans, CRF

What have we learned about employee health and wellbeing strategies since the pandemic? What are companies getting right and where do we still need to improve? What type of organisation culture and environment do we need to promote and support employee wellbeing? This event will discuss key considerations and how to bring these insights to life.

HR Leaders' End of Year

London, UK

Richard Hargreaves, CRF

Our annual invitation-only HR Directors' dinner is an opportunity for members to network with fellow senior practitioners as the year comes to a close. We will give an update on CRF's plans and progress, before exchanging on current issues over dinner.

PLUS: CRF Digital Communities

Join one or more of our Digital Communities to engage with our network of practitioners, academics and experts on selected research and discussion sessions, complemented by the ability to share and learn with your peers on a range of member-led topics throughout the year.

Each community meets regularly to address topical issues and stays connected via a WhatsApp group, regular updates, and networking opportunities. Members of the community can keep informed with access to our webpage of curated content to enhance their knowledge.
